

From The Desk of ~ Jeff Banning

Last month I asked what is your definition of Economic Development. We had several comments regarding our article, as you can well imagine. I thought it would be appropriate to pass onto all of you receiving our newsletter the latest publication of Indiana Economic Development Association (IEDA) - the leading economic development group in the state. This is the list of economic development terms in our world full of acronyms, abbreviations and all of those "Greek" sounding words. So click on the link below and find out what it all means and what it is all about.

Thank you to Lee Lewellen and Jill Ewing from IEDA, as well as, the board of directors of IEDA (of which I am a board member) and everyone else that had a hand in trying to define those terms that help us define Economic Development. Got other questions that aren't addressed or other terms that need to be defined? Please pass those on and we will try and help you out.
