

Bali Silver - A True Work of Art

What makes Bali silver exceptional? It is sterling silver made on the island of Bali, Indonesia, located in the Indian Ocean. The Balinese are highly skilled silversmiths known for their granulation and wirework embellishment.

Genuine Bali silver is handmade; it really does deserve a second look. It takes a discerning eye for detail and design to notice all the subtle intricacies. Every piece is a tribute to the mastery of the Balinese silversmiths.

One unique feature is the procedure of antiquing, or induced tarnishing, on the base of the jewellery. This creates a darker area which allows for the intricate wire and granulation designs to be emphasized. It is clear that every component of Balinese silver jewellery is what makes each piece a handmade treasure, crafted with care and precision.

Bali chains and pendants will lend an exotic beauty to your style like no other. Each Balinese style necklace is sure to grab attention and works well with any summer wardrobe; always great for office wear and looks perfect with a pair of jeans!
