We've done a lot here.

I'm proud of what we have accomplished as a team during my five-and-a-half years. We're well positioned for continuing success in the future and that makes me feel really good as I share with you my decision to step aside as Vice President and News Director and pursue new and exciting opportunities.

I will miss this place terribly. I am grateful to Steve and CBS for the opportunities provided to me the past nine years in both Dallas and here in LA. Working in my home town, at a station I grew up watching, was the ultimate honor. Thanks to each of you for making this experience so wonderful.

Now---go out and break a story!
