

The Executive Conversation Series

Maximizing time, optimizing learning

Today more than ever before, executives are called upon to be the role models for learning and leadership excellence. The Executive Conversation Series goes beyond traditional leadership skill development to include a structured conversation format that serves to harness group intellectual capacity. Emphasis is placed on executive influence as well as current barriers to achieving maximum impact. This highly customized and interactive series balances theory and practice and offers proven tools for immediate skills transfer. It also acknowledges that most executives today do not have the luxury of attending a one or two day training program. In support of this reality, the program is delivered in 60 minute segments with a combination of individual and group activities all designed to enhance the executive's influence and impact.

Core Conversation Starters:
