Are you a cinema fan? Do like watching original version films, but get frustrated when you don't understand everything? This year the Somosaguas Teaching Centre will run a series of cinema nights for its Senior and Adult students, providing them with the support they need to comprehend what they are watching.

We'll compare the beginnings of two famous short stories with their film adaptations. During this time you will not only enjoy reading and watching authentic English, but also learn some techniques and strategies which you can use to aid your understanding of these mediums.

Poet in New York

Tuesday 27th October 20:10 – 21.10 +16 years

Recommended minimum level B1

In conjunction with the Lorca Foundation, a production of Poet in New York by Will Keen.

Aware of the difficulty of understanding what was, and still is offered by many of the poems of Poet in New York, Lorca delayed the book's publication for years. In 1933 he said, "This book about New York that I brought from my trip to the United States, I did not want to give to any of the editors who asked me for it. Later I will publish it, but first I want to make it known in the form of a conference. I will read verses and explain how they came about. I will read and analyze them at the same time."

Will Keen stages this conference as it was done in the New York Public Library in 2013. Will Keen has worked for many years as an actor on the London stage, playing leading roles at, among many others, the National Theatre, Shakespeare's Globe Theatre and the Royal Court. Along the way, he's worked with many of the most respected theatre-makers in the UK, including Trevor Nunn, Peter Hall, Richard Eyre, Declan Donnellan and Tom Stoppard. In Madrid, he has played the title role in Cheek by Jowl's production of Macbeth as well as the character of De Flores alongside Olivia Williams in The Changeling by the same company. He has recently been seen on TV playing the role of Samuel in Refugiados.

Tales from Around the World with Jennifer Ramsay

Wednesday 28th October 17:30 – 18:30 10 – 13 years

Wednesday 28th October 19:00– 20:00 14 – 17 years

If you don't know the trees you may be lost in the forest, but if you don't know the stories you may be lost in life (Siberian Elder).

Jennifer Ramsay, 'The Story Girl', takes us on a storytelling trip around the world to listen to ancestral story wisdom that could help us find our way in the forest of life. Storytelling is about connecting: connecting people to each other, to other cultures, to other times and to the universe. Through stories from different cultures we'll see that we're not so different from one another.

Jennifer Ramsay was born in Scotland, a Celtic land with a long tradition of storytelling. When she was little books were her faithful companions. Years later she started to paint the stories and myths she came across in her travels around the world until one day, she started telling the stories and hasn't stopped since then. Her creativity is inspired in the dawn of humanity, when stories were told around the fire to connect with one's self, with the clan and with the universe.

A Book for a Winter Night with Daniel Brint

Wednesday 28th October 20:30 – 21:30 Adults

Recommended minimum level B1

When faced with shelves of English novels, how do you choose what to read? Do you take a safe option – Agatha Christie, John Grisham or J.K Rowling for example, or try something by a writer you've never heard of?

Fiction in English has never been as varied and surprising as it is today. Alongside the classics, the best sellers and the prize-winners are countless books of exceptional quality books to delight, inspire and move us. The British Council Book Club has read 120 novels since its inception, many of them by lesser-known or unknown writers.

In this talk, Daniel Brint will present a selection of enjoyable and stimulating books - and at the same time suggest some reasons why reading fiction is such a rewarding activity.

Daniel Brint studied British and American Literature and received his PhD from the University of Cambridge. He teaches at the Madrid Adults Centre and has run the British Council Madrid Adults Book Club since 2000 and the monthly British Council/La Central Poetry Space discussion group. He also ran the monthly British Council/La Central Poetry Space discussion group and interviewed visiting authors for British Council Arts events.

Murder in the Library

Murder in the Library will be led by two actors/drama facilitators.

Discover the World of Shakespeare with Jonathan Mellor

Thursday 29th October 17:30 – 18:30 10 – 14 years

Recommended minimum level B1

Libraries...quiet...studious...boring,right?

WRONG!

A library is a place to discover yourself and the world, a place for fun, a place to jump and learn how to unfold your wings. So come and join us and together, in an interactive, noisy and fun session, we'll put on a play by Britain's greatest writer William Shakespeare.

Jonathan has taught since before he graduated from Oxford in 1989 with a degree in English; he later completed his CELTA at IH, London. He started performing on stage at school, and later also became involved in film & TV. He gives language and theatre classes & workshops both to learners and teachers at educational entities such as the British Council, the King's Group and Schools, publishers such as Macmillan and Edelvives, the CDL, the CTIF Madrid, and several institutos around the capital. Apart from his theatre work, he has appeared in several films, such as Rec2, Knight and Day (Tom Cruise & Cameron Diaz) & The Wine of Summer (with Elsa Pataky). Most recently has been seen in the ground-breaking series for A3/La Sexta/BBC, Refugees.
