Upper Union Street - Cycle Cycle

The Upper Union Street Shopping District recently had 5 new bike racks installed along the popular retail restaurant strip. "We responded to members of the 12009 Neighborhood Association, our own business owners including 'Divine's' Linda Smith (who pedals to work most days), visitors and residents on their way to Schenectady's Del (Luskwood Avenue), the Upper Union Street Public Parking Lot (Woodland Avenue), Dunkin' Donuts (Keyes Avenue), Subway (Dean Street) and Pizza Hut (Dean Street). CDTA riders can "bust-and-bike" on all CDTA routes throughout the region. User-friendly bike racks on the front of the "Steele Buses" offer all riders an environmentally sound and fun way to get around as they bust a work out into their daily commute. One of Upper Union Street's newest businesses, the HPRT Athletic Center at 1519 Keyes Avenue provides an opportunity for bicyclists to meet with a bicycle coach, perfect their bike fit and sign up for bike tours and events.

This weekend the City is showcasing street-level bicycle improvements designed to increase safety and connectivity along the Mohawk-Hudson Bike-Hike Trail in the Stockade neighborhood. The demonstration is part of the City's work to update its bike infrastructure plan to create a total priority bicycle network to connect city residents and visitors to key destinations. The Stockade is a key connection between other local destinations and the Mohawk-Hudson Bike-Hike Trail and so, Washington Avenue was identified as a prime location to attract users during the weekend's events. The temporary installation will show people how bike lanes and other related features can improve safety and accessibility for cyclists and all residents. And because this is a demonstration project, the City seeks feedback from everyone who may come across the project, as a cyclist, motorist, pedestrian, or just on-looker. The demonstration project will be in place from July 15th to July 19th, located on Washington Avenue between State Street and Union Street. More information on the Bike Infrastructure Plan can be found at schenectadybikes.com. The bike plan update and demonstration project is being funded with assistance from CDTG through its Community and Transportation Linkage Planning Program.
