Interwoven into the fabric of the conference, TQuest Productions of Toronto will perform the first third of the Portal of Initiation, from the prelude (Friday night) through scenes one and two (Saturday), up until scene three (Sunday afternoon). Accompanying us on this journey, Christian Community Priest Daniel Hafner will open and close the conference with lectures which are intended to awaken a spiritual dialogue between the two initiatives.

The Philosophy of Freedom is a path of knowledge, a transformational reply to the spirit words, "O human being know thyself." During the conference, we will take up some of the many exercises which can be discovered in creative conversation with the Philosophy of Freedom. Engagement with such exercises can be deeply enhanced through working together. In this spirit, the conference is not intended to be a sharing of received wisdom. Rather, the work is experiential, a new beginning, a striving with colleagues to practice the Philosophy of Freedom.

Our imagination for the weekend is that conference participants will come to find in the experience of the Portal of Initiation a path to freedom and discover in the Philosophy of Freedom a fundamental point of entry into the experience of the mystery drama which is at the foundation of every individual's life.
