I need to speak personally about all the news coming out about the Anglican Communion and the Anglican Primates, etc etc etc

This view is a personal representation only:

- a) The Episcopal Church continues to be the Episcopal Church. No action today will have any effect whatsoever on the inner workings of how we function or whom we welcome.
- b) The Church of Jesus Christ, to whom all baptized people belong, is called to seek and serve all people. The Episcopal Church will continue to do this.
- c) My ministry, and the ministry of all my colleagues in the Episcopal Church continues our mission and our call, just as we continue to discern where the Holy Spirit is leading us next.

As a result, I feel sorry for those in the Anglican Communion that believe they'd prefer to offer punishment instead of Good News.

It's time to dwell on God's love, and expect Christ's love to carry us through all of this. Love ultimately wins. We know this.
