

Fundamentals of the National Standards for Culturally and Linguistically Appropriate Services in Health and Health Care (National CLAS Standards)

On March 17, at 3:00 pm the HHS Office of Minority Health will kick off the first in a series of webinars on the National CLAS Standards.

Featured Speaker:

J. Nadine Gracia, MD, MSCE

Deputy Assistant Secretary for Minority Health

Director, Office of Minority Health

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

Culturally and linguistically appropriate services means that services are respectful of and responsive to individual cultural health beliefs and practices, preferred languages, health literacy levels, and communication needs. The National CLAS Standards provide a blueprint for individuals and health and health care organizations to best serve Virginia's and our nation's increasingly diverse communities.

Broadcast will be viewed in the VDH Madison Building, Dogwood (11th floor) Conference Room

The session is also available via prearranged Polycom. To register a Polycom site, contact Rich Watson at richard.watson@vdh.virginia.gov or 804-864-7179.
