Family Meeting Workshop: The Greatest Gift....Pre-Planning

A note from Mary Grace Musuneggi:

When my mother passed away, my brother and I spent only five minutes at the funeral home making arrangements. Those five minutes were to sign a few forms; and be grateful that my mother had completed all of her preplanning. She had made all the decisions; planned the service, paid the costs, and gave us the greatest gift. We had the gift of spending all of our time sharing memories, meeting with family and friends, and dealing with our loss.

Pre-planning provides the opportunity to have final arrangements the way you want them to be; prevents family arguments; avoids excessive costs; gives you and your family peace of mind.

Join us to learn about the how's, why's and costs of pre-planning; as Patrick McGowan of Conroy Funeral Home tells us all about the programs and processes.

About Patrick: Graduate of Chartiers – Houston High School in Houston, PA – 1984, California University of PA, BS in Secondary Education, Biology – 1988, and the Pittsburgh Institute of Mortuary Science – 1989. Past President of the Allegheny County Funeral Directors Assoc., the Kiwanis Club of Sheraden and Parish Council at the Church of the Ascension, Ingram. Pat is also a member of the American Society of Embalmers and a certified Funeral Celebrant. Before joining with the funeral home in 1996, Pat was the Associate Dean of Students and Faculty at the Pittsburgh Institute of Mortuary Science. Pat is still an adjunct instructor at the mortuary school where he teaches Funeral Home Management and Clinical Embalming.
