

Coming Together in faith on climate

Religious Leaders Support and Extend the Pope's Call to Action.

Thursday, September 24 at 7:30 pm at Washington National Cathedral

Climate change is profoundly impacting God's creation and people, with the poorest and most vulnerable bearing the greatest consequences. The effects of increasing droughts, floods, wildfires, extreme weather and rising sea levels can be measured in lost lives, higher food prices, poorer health and billions of dollars in disaster relief. Our faith demands that we act now.

Pope Francis will be visiting Washington DC in September and will meet with President Obama, give a historic address to a joint session of the U.S. Congress and hold a Canonization Mass at the Basilica of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. He is expected to bring attention to the issue of climate change during his visit.

Coming Together in Faith on Climate is a gathering to bring together faith communities for inspirational messages, songs and poetry to inspire and connect faith and climate leaders and build momentum for action. This free, ticketed event will be livestreamed across the country.

Join the celebration and connect with people of faith working to save the planet.

Register today at comingtogether2015.org. Tickets are required for this free event. Or join the event online through the livestream at cathedral.org.
