Harris Crowley

Customer Service Rep

Harris is one of Sterling's most experienced engine specialists with over 45 years of engine experience. He's responsible for counter sales in Sterling's Dania Beach, FL, branch, and he's also an important part of Sterling's 15-member customer service team. Harris started his career at an auto parts store with machine shop working on engines and selling parts. He joined Engine Rebuilders Warehouse in 1994 as a customer service rep and transitioned to the Sterling Engine Parts team in August of 2014.

Harris was born in Florida and has lived there his entire life except for a 4 year stint in the United States Air Force. The USAF took him to many places including Iceland where he was stationed for over a year. Harris spent his youth playing every sport, including baseball, football, swim team and track & field. He played and umpired softball, and competed as a brown belt in Judo until blowing-out his knee in the late '90's. He was also a firefighter and paramedic for 7 years before dedicating his life to engines.

When Harris isn't selling engine parts you'll find him at the races, fishing, scuba diving, or enjoying a round of poker with friends.
