Course measured by riding in middle of lane to the solid white line with traffic. Course assumes runners will hug the white line on the road and then cut across road on each turn for shortest distances. No restrictive points other than runners should run in the lane with traffic. All corners assume runners cutting across and shortest distance across the road into the other lane back through opposite lane again running with traffic.

S curves measured by staying closest to the white line on the "with traffic" side of the road. All corners measured with runners approaching and cutting into shortest distance around the corner.
