Join us for Kit Welchlin

One of the busiest leadership keynote speakers in the U.S., Kit Welchlin, has delivered leadership keynote speeches and seminars to hundreds of thousands of people over the past 20 years. Often described as “high energy” and “entertaining”, Kit weaves his unique sense of humor and practical stories and strategies into his keynote presentations and seminars, whether he’s speaking about how to improve customer service, stress management in the workplace, intergenerational communication or how to handle difficult customers. A member of the National Speakers Association, Kit taught at Mankato State University where he received the Teaching Excellence Award and at Metropolitan State University where he was repeatedly nominated Outstanding Faculty. Topics he will be covering include;

Team work and Team Building: Working together in a group is a difficult and complicated communication task. Most people are unaware of the communication dynamics that affect the team and the team’s effort. As a leadership keynote speaker, Kit describes how valuable positive team interactions are to organizational success. Effective communication techniques are critical for positive team dynamics. Kit Welchlin is one of the most requested team building speakers and teamwork speakers in the speaking industry.

Time Management: We all get the same 168 hours each week. How effectively are you using yours? It is important to recognize the tasks and activities in our lives in which we have some, if not total control, and maximize our time and life management. Given the demands of this new economy and our fast-paced personal lives, effective time use is a critical skill.
