This special screening of watery vintage films, presented by film archivist Louise Pankhurst, and sampled from the BFI National Archive and London's Screen Archives, includes some rare footage of the landscape of the capital. In this unique experience, films drawn from across the whole city over the last 100 years will show the city's ever-changing riverside and cultural melting pot.

Please donate your home movies

London's Screen Archives' 'London: A Bigger Picture' project is searching and collecting home movies that represent the lives of Londoners, capturing the social history of the capital on film. Call LSA 020 7613 7674
