

What is our 'Pastor to Pastors' Program?

Being a pastor can be a lonely place.

Who can you safely confide in and talk to?

Certainly not the members of your flock, and often you don't want to burden family members either.

Presbytery is aware of your need for a pastor. With your own personal pastor your conversations will be held in total confidentiality. What you discuss will not be recorded and since your pastor is not your Executive Presbyter (who sometimes is asked for references), you can be sure that your conversations will remain sacred trusts.

No one will ever know that you met with each other.

Jim Glenn is the Pastor to Pastors in PSNE and is available to be YOUR pastor in a strictly confidential relationship. He is available to clergy who need someone with whom you can share whatever is on your mind.

Contact Jim and arrange a private time and place to meet.

43 years as an ordained minister with 45 years of professional ministry
For the past 20 years, I have averaged 10-15 hours of counseling per week – all volunteer – often to the community and to fellow members of the clergy from various denominations. Because I volunteer and there is no money or insurance involved, I choose not to be licensed. I am a pastor more than a therapist.

I am a believer in Jesus Christ as my Lord and Savior and Friend and I choose to be connected within the Presbyterian Family of the Christian Community.
