James Roberson and Trey Miller Receive Broker of the Year Awards

KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE – February 2016 – Two NAI Knoxville agents earned recognition at the Knoxville Business Journal and East Tennessee CCIM chapter’s Commercial Real Estate Awards.

James Roberson was named Industrial Broker of the Year for his role in the sale of a 360,000-square-foot industrial building at 2015 Eastbridge Drive, which was purchased by Lifetime Products, Inc. Also last year, Roberson brokered the sale of a 334,000-square-foot industrial building in Loudon County to van-maker Morgan Olson.

Trey Miller was named Retail Broker of the Year for a complicated assemblage consisting of 10 separate transactions, a $14.5 million deal that paved the way for a new Publix anchored shopping center in Pigeon Forge. Trey was previously part of the $10.5 million retail transaction at Belle Island Village in Pigeon Forge that was named Deal of the Year in 2011.
