

Canadian Golf Superintendents Association Announces On-Demand Learning Opportunities Approved for Continuing Education Credits

The Canadian Golf Superintendents Association (CGSA) is pleased to announce that the sessions from the 2016 Canadian Golf Course Management Conference are now available through its Live Learning Centre (LLC). Among those available there are several on-demand learning opportunities that qualify for continuing education credits (CEC) with certification and licensing bodies from across Canada.

To participate in these sessions, please go to the CGSA's LLC. The sessions that are approved for CEC's are noted when you click on the area that says "for CEC Approved Sessions" on the landing page or click here. Once you complete one of the approved sessions you will be prompted to complete a 10 question quiz on which you must achieve 70%. If you are successful, you will be emailed a certificate of completion. CGSA will receive notification of your completion and if successful, will send the attendance records to the appropriate party. It will still be up to the individual to track their participation.

Thus far there are several sessions that are up and running. These include; Exploiting Strategies to Enhance Summer Stress Tolerance (Michelle DaCosta, Ph.D.), Integrated Pest Management (Alec Kowalewski, Ph.D.), Physical Properties of Soils (Beth Guertal, Ph.D.), Is Your Potassium Helping or Hurting Your Turf? (Doug Soldat, Ph.D.), and Secrets to Managing Bentgrass in Northern California (Thomas Bastis, CGCS). More sessions will be added over the coming month.

If you attended the 2016 CGCMC with an All Inclusive or Conference Education Package you will soon receive complimentary access to these sessions. If you did not, you can login or create an account to take advantage of these online learning opportunities.

Also, please take a few moments to review the other sessions available through the LLC including the AGM Presentation. This presentation will give you an update as to the CGSA Re-Design process and next steps. This presentation is available to view here.

It is up to the individual participating in these sessions to know what exclusions may apply on this type of learning. Some agencies may have limits on the amount of credits that can be earned using online learning.
