

Join us as we celebrate survival, hope and progress in changing the odds for women with cancer.

Laura Shawver founded The Clarity Foundation after concluding her own treatment for ovarian cancer with the mission of giving women access to precision medicine technologies to find the best treatment options for their cancer.

Mission Acceleration

We are working to significantly improve outcomes for women with ovarian cancer—not years from now, but today. That effort requires the acceleration of our mission to accomplish the objectives.

We have set a three year plan of action in place that will provide new information for women and their physicians allowing for better decisions and better outcomes.

- We are working with renowned cancer centers to expand the use of personalized medicine TODAY.
- We are conducting a study of platinum resistant patients—the current first-line treatment that is often ineffective in these patients.
- We are expanding our tumor database to allow statistical analysis that will point to more effective approaches for treating ovarian and other difficult to treat cancers..

These efforts will reshape the approach to treatment and positively impact outcomes. Your support will make a difference in the lives of women with ovarian cancer TODAY.
