NEWMARKET, ON, March 31, 2015 - Local Newmarket business Environmental Pest Control (EPC) has recently acquired neighbouring company, Justus Pest Control of Keswick. The partnership positions the combined company, EPC, as industry leaders in advanced methods and technology for pest control management.

Bill Justus, founder of Justus Pest Control, will now be working under the EPC name with longtime colleague Paul Terhart, President of Environmental Pest Control.

The partnership was a natural progression for the two companies, as they have a long history with one another. After both attending Sir Sandford Fleming for Environmental Pest Management, Terhart apprenticed at the same company Justus was working with in 1986. The two went on to start their own successful pest control companies, and have kept in touch ever since.

"I am absolutely thrilled to be working alongside one of my mentors. Having Justus Pest Control come aboard is going to be very beneficial for our 2015 season," said Terhart.

"Justus Pest Control and EPC have the same standards for customer service and pest management," said Justus, "It's a very smart move for us to join forces."

EPC and Justus Pest Control share many of the same service locations in York Region and Simcoe County. Justus will now be working within EPC's additional service areas, and will also be making use of EPC's extensive resources and client base.

"EPC offers a unique set of pest control services, like our fleet of boats for cottage pest control," said Terhart. "Our combined years of experience coupled with EPC's wide range of services will make this a great partnership for both parties."
