

Q: I have an old appliance I need to get rid of. What can I do?

Many appliance retailers offer a disposal service for your old device with delivery of your new one. Additional charges may apply depending on the retailer, so make sure to check. There are often other options available. Many communities have community-wide take-all events where you can place large items at the curb for free, or you can contact your city/village hall for a large item disposal ticket, usually in the $20 range if they offer that service. Rural residents have fewer options, but many of our area road commissioners host an annual weekend cleanup event where local residents can bring large items, unwanted paint and electronics to a centralized location for disposal or recycling.