Wayne Castonguay, Executive Director of the Ipswich River Watershed Association, discusses the importance of the Ipswich River to Hamilton, Wenham and surrounding communities with a focus on history, ecology and our drinking water supply. The slide show presentation will be followed by an interactive discussion with audience members about the major issues facing the river today and how they will impact the communities which depend on the river.

Topics include:

- The natural resources of the river and how our communities depend on them;
- Why the river has been designated as one of the most endangered in the country and what it means for us;
- How the sweeping new state and federal water-related regulations will impact our future growth and development;
- How the river can continue to support both people and nature for years to come.
