Cristina Chavira, AED
Diamond V

Welcome Cristy!

Cristina Chavira, AED has joined Diamond V as Dairy Technical Support and Area Sales Manager in Mexico.

“Cristy has 15 years of experience in sales, administration, and management with leading companies in dairy genetics and milk production,” says Fernando de la Colina, Director for Latin America, based in Mexico. “She has great practical knowledge of dairy production. Her skills also include data analysis, project implementation, personnel management, and the ability to work under pressure.”

Prior to joining Diamond V, Cristy worked four years as the manager of Santa Maria Dairy, which has 3,000 milking cows. Before that she was the manager of a genetic improvement program for a group of dairy farms collaborating with Grupo Genetico G20.

Cristy is married to Luis Cisneros and they have two daughters, Pamela (six years old) and Paula (five years old). Cristy and Luis live in Torreón in the northern Mexican state of Coahuila.

Please join us in welcoming Cristy as our newest Diamond V teammate – email cchavira@diamondv.com.

Wageningen dairy symposium

Optimal nutrition helps reduce the incidence of metabolic and infectious diseases in dairy cows and supports animal welfare, performance, and longevity. Wageningen University's 2015 International Symposium on Dairy Cattle Nutrition – October 22 in The Netherlands – links science to practice for better nutritional health.

It's not too late to register for this highly focused educational program, sponsored by Diamond V, Cargill, Wageningen University, Utrecht University, and others.

Thanks for your interest and support – please let us know if Diamond V can help your dairy operation or business in any way.
