Working for Our Coast:

How Our Environment and Economy Can Work Together

Join us for a workshop and discussion of state and local restoration opportunities

Thursday, May 19, 2016 | 9am – 5pm
Nicholls State University, Bollinger Student Union
Thibodaux, Louisiana

Regional coastal advocacy group Restore or Retreat is convening leaders from industry, state and local government and community organizations for an insightful discussion of the ways restoration and protection opportunities can benefit workers, industries and communities.

Speakers include:

- Johnny Bradberry, Coastal Protection and Restoration Authority Chairman, as our keynote lunch speaker
- Leadership from CPRA Implementation Team
- Robin Barnes, GNO, Inc.
- Dr. Bruce Murphy, Nicholls State University
- Scott Kirkpatrick, Coast Builders Coalition with coastal industry leaders
- Senior officials from Terrebonne and Lafourche and levee districts, as well as parishes

Join us for a chance to:

- Learn more about the State's Annual Plan and 2017 Master Plan Update, and their process on "How to do Business with the CPRA"
- Hear from regional levee districts and parishes about their upcoming work on levees, restoration and infrastructure
- Network with other firms, landowners, industry officials, and partnering non-profits on doing business in coastal Louisiana
- Participate in additional technical updates from:
 - CPRA Master Plan, Interactive Project Map and Flood Risk and Resilience Viewer
 - Terrebonne Economic Development Authority on Bonding
 - Louisiana Procurement Technical Assistance Center
 - South Louisiana Economic Council on Small Business Development
- Acquire the continuing education requirements for LAPELS, including the mandatory one hour PDH in Ethics*
