

Patriots Colony Flower Garden

This is an open invitation to be a part of the Patriots Colony Community Flower Garden. Our garden was the vision of one gardener, Dan Hickey during the very early days of Patriots Colony. His passion was roses and he began with the very best pest resistant and hardy roses available. “Easy Elegance”, pictured below, was his choice. They have proven their worth over many years since they were planted. They are currently the backbone of our now thriving garden.

Other plants and new roses have been added and the garden has had a complete redesign. New decorative fencing and benches, as well as paths, have been added over the years. Many residents are currently working to keep this serene spot open to all residents for meditation and strolling.
