Ladies Billiards

It was a super Saturday in May that Patriots Colony seniors all over the campus were participating in various activities-- tennis, putting contests, and ladies and men's billiards. It was in the Billiard Room where a contest of wills and skills between two ladies took place.

The ladies billiard match between Gail Dubrow and Maridell Loomis was the match of the decade—I exaggerate a bit — but it was definitely one of the best matches, to date although a bit nerve-wracking. It took 15 games to come up with a winner all of which kept referee, Joann Dettmann on her toes. The on-lookers were not disappointed with the action and all three matches were a fight over the 8-ball. Some on-lookers even had to take breaks from the knuckle-crunching and nail-biting stress of watching and waiting for a winner to emerge, and it was touch and go and anyone's match the entire time.

It was the fifth game of the third match when, with both players doing the "billiards dance" around the table that Maridell Loomis finally sank the 8-ball to win her second singles match. Gail Dubrow was a formidable second place. Gail Dubrow and Joann Dettmann were the doubles match winners—Dettmann's third doubles title with three different partners.

If you want to see who all the past winners are—check out the plaque in Archie's Tavern. There will be another tournament with more winners-to-be on the horizon beginning in August. New members are always welcomed.

The Corn Hole Tournament

During the hot week of July 13th, 48 people signed up for a corn hole tournament which was held under the canopy of the Cannon Building.

The finals came down to six teams who played for the highest score on Friday afternoon to a big crowd of well-wishers. The team of Darryl Dettmann and Howard Oakley took honors and won the champagne. There were lots of cheers for the winners and no injuries were recorded!!
