Sophie Tucker, born in an Orthodox Jewish family, was not what you would expect for a star. Yet, this film depicts the rags-to-riches story of how Sophie Tucker became an iconic superstar who ruled two worlds of Vaudeville, Broadway, radio, television and Hollywood throughout the 20th century. She inspired stars like Bette Midler and Judy Garland. More than 400 recently discovered scrapbooks of Tucker's are documented through authors and producers Susan and Lloyd Ecker's seven-year journey retracing Tucker's sixty-year career in show business.

Space is limited, and pre-registration is encouraged.
