APIASF is currently seeking volunteer readers for the APIASF General Scholarship program, which received nearly 9,000 applications this year. Volunteer readers have access to a secure website to review scholarship applications at a time that is most convenient to them during the read period (January 12 - March 13, 2015). To ensure that there are enough readers to evaluate all applications, readers are asked to commit to completing a minimum of 20 applications. Each application takes approximately 10-15 minutes to review. All readers must have an undergraduate college diploma and/or 7-10 years of work experience.

If you are interested in volunteering as a reader for the APIASF Scholarship Program, please complete the new reader registration form. If you are a returning reader, simply log in to your account at the top of the registration page.

It's Time to #repService!

January is the time to #repService on re/present, so join us in dialogue around service, giving back and making an impact in the community. As you reflect on your accomplishments from 2014 and your resolutions for 2015, remember that, "The best way to find yourself is to lose yourself in the service of others." Many of us would not have reached the heights that we did without our champions encouraging us towards success, so how will you pay it forward in 2015?

Scholar Profile

"Being an immigrant in a new world has been a difficult circumstance for me and my family. My family and I didn't know how to read, write or even communicate in English when we got to the United States. [...] From these obstacles I have learned that I was fortunate to come to the United States because I could go to school even though I wasn't a citizen. I have learned the value of education, and that with education I will be able to help my parents or my community."

Hameda Dil Mohamed

2014 - 2015 APIASF / AT&T Foundation Scholar
Attending Portland State University
Majoring in International Studies: East Asian

Volunteer Profile

"As Queens College's advisor for national awards, I was delighted to support our students applying for the APIASF/AANAPISI scholarship and to read applications from students at other institutions. In reading applications, it was a pleasure to "meet," even if only virtually, students so committed to pursuing excellence in education and to serving their communities, often under challenging circumstances. It is very rewarding to be a part of a program which assists students to fulfill their academic and professional potential."
