Pa Courts Launches Android Version of PAeDocket –First State-level Mobile App for Finding Court Dockets

App available for free in both the Google Play and iTunes App Stores

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania courts today launched the Android version of PAeDocket – a free app that provides a quick and simple search of court cases or dockets.

Finding public court information is easier than ever with PAeDocket – including results about cases, such as charges, court dates, upcoming hearings and status of cases. PAeDocket offers a visually engaging and easy-to-use mobile experience, now for both Android and iOS platforms.

Utilizing mobile apps provides a valuable service for the public, including lawyers, law enforcement, consumers, victims and victims' families.

In fact, since launching the iPhone and iPad version of PAeDocket in May 2015, more than 3,388 users have downloaded the app, with many people asking for the Android version. Existing PAeDocket users have given the app a 5-star rating, commenting that “every PA attorney should have it,” it’s “very useful” and “finds a lot of cases.”

PAeDocket makes looking for Pennsylvania case information fast and easy. Application users can search:

- case number
- participant name
- organization name
- offense tracking number
- police incident or complaint number
- state ID number
- To download the application, visit the Google Play or iTunes store and search for “PAeDocket.”

The judiciary reminds drivers not to access PAeDocket while driving.
