LEGACY: The 2014 Lights, Camera, Africa!!! Film Festival

Embracing the theme, LEGACY, the Lights, Camera, Africa!!! Film Festival in 2014 undertakes retrospective and prospective views of the rich and textured tradition of film making in Africa.

Presenting a continuum of a great body of works in film and contextualizing the work of filmmakers today and through the continent's history as a part of a larger tapestry of storytelling with film. In 2014, the Nigerian state commemorates the centenary of the amalgamation of the Southern and Northern Protectorates, the film narrative is integral to the communication of the legacy of this act and its impact on our history and future.

This year's festival will feature retrospective reviews of classical works of film and television and share the influences of these totems on the now and future of film in Africa. The festival will continue to champion great quality film works (old & new) from Nigeria and all over the African continent.
