PRESS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

THEODORE FARRAND APPOINTED NEW DIRECTOR OF MANAGEMENT ADVISORY SERVICES (MAS) OF CINI-LITTLE INTERNATIONAL, INC.

With a continued focus on positioning Cini-Little International, Inc. to capture an even larger share of the market, the firm has named Theodore Farrand, FCSI, as a Director of MAS (Management Advisory Services). The news was announced after the firm's quarterly Board of Directors Meeting in March by William V. Eaton, FCSI, Chairman of Cini-Little International, Inc.

Ted Farrand brings more than 30 years of experience in the planning and execution of innovative solutions for our clients. In his new role Farrand will be responsible for directing the growth strategy for the firm's MAS practice, leading and growing a world class consulting team, building relationships with clients and providing project leadership.

"I'm looking forward to advancing excellence in Management Advisory Services at Cini-Little. I believe properly planned food and beverage operations establish a sense of community in a building and encourages communication, collaboration and solidifies relationships," said Farrand.

Richard Eisenbarth, FCSI, succeeds Farrand as President & COO of Cini-Little International, Inc.

"Ted brings outstanding experience and qualifications to this role at a time when we are seeking to lead an unprecedented transformation to enhance the value of our Management Advisory Services and continue to raise the bar and drive innovation throughout our practice," said Eisenbarth.

Ted has experience providing visioning, master planning, feasibility studies, benchmarking, operator selection and optimization studies across multiple market segments including corporate, healthcare, and higher ed. He has helped guide the firm's portfolio and unique forward thinking approach to foodservice, laundry and waste management consulting services.

"There's no better person than Ted to take the reins of our MAS practice," shared Bill Eaton, "having served as President & COO, Ted has a deep knowledge of client issues; he innately understands the critical role we, through our Management Advisory Services, must play in furthering our clients' success, while providing clear, actionable insight and guidance to clients."
