FCSI-The Americas Renews Management Contract with 520 Management

BLOOMINGTON, IL, May 13, 2013 – FCSI-The Americas, the only consulting Society dedicated to serving independent foodservice design and hospitality management professionals, has renewed its international office management services agreement through 2018 with 520 Management, its longstanding association management partner.

“The trust and loyalty that is shared between FCSI-The Americas and 520 Management has grown over many years and has contributed directly to the association’s stability and success,” said Jim Petersen, chairman of the FCSI-The Americas Board of Trustees and principal of C.i.i. Food Service Design.

520 Management is owned by Wade Koehler and based in Bloomington, IL. Koehler has enjoyed a long and productive relationship with FCSI, first as a trusted staffer before being hired in 2010 to run the Americas Division.

According to Koehler, “We are thrilled to extend our contract with FCSI The Americas for an additional five years. We enjoy working with the Board of Trustees and members alike and appreciate the trust they have bestowed upon our management company”

Established in 2008 as the Americas Division of FCSI, the association represents independent foodservice consultants throughout North and South America. Today, it remains the largest of three divisions that represent the Foodservice Consultants Society International.

520 Management provides FCSI-The Americas with comprehensive central office management, including day-to-day administration of FCSI-The Americas business and services under the direction of the FCSI-The Americas Board of Trustees. This also includes fiscal management, marketing and strategic planning consultation, membership development and administration of membership services, executive director services, education services, conference, registration and exhibit management services, publication management and national advertising representation, corporate grant solicitation, data processing and fulfillment information services.
