This training experience is part of an ongoing clinical case conference series offered by the CTA and Take Two, Berry Street. This teaching model has been useful for helping clinicians and front-line staff better understand and work with the children and families they serve. This practical teaching model provides an opportunity for ongoing capacity building within an institution or for individuals.

We recommend this series as a complement to any more intensive training/program development projects that our partners have with the CTA. However, individual and institutional participation does not require any other program development activities or projects with the CTA and can serve as a good introduction to viewing maltreated and traumatized children through the “lens” of neurodevelopment.

This Series is NOT limited to participants from Australia.

Information regarding subscription follows on the next two pages.
