Need the latest info on assistive technology?

Center for Parent Center Resources

<http://www.parentcenterhub.org/>

The Center on Technology and Disability (CTD) is funded by the U.S. Department of Education's Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP). They are designed to increase the capacity of families and providers to advocate for, acquire, and implement effective assistive and instructional technology (AT/IT) practices, devices, and services. Research-based technologies, used appropriately, have great potential to help infants, toddlers, children, and youth with disabilities:

- participate fully in daily routines;
- have increased access to the general educational curriculum;
- improve their functional outcomes and educational results; and
- meet college- and career-ready standards.

CTD regularly holds webinars that bring together experts in the field to discuss key aspects of using AT to support the needs of children and youth with disabilities. It also hosts learning events, an institute, and a remarkable library of resources.

Find out what's planned in the coming months, at: <http://www.ctdinstitute.org/events>

Search the library for needed materials on AT: <http://www.ctdinstitute.org/library>

Access archived webinars galore at: <http://www.ctdinstitute.org/cafe>

Examples of Archived Webinars include:

- The ABCs of Accessibility and Accommodations in State Assessments
- Accessibility and Accommodations Challenges in Technology-Based State Assessments
- AT and Accommodations in Post-Secondary Education, Supporting Successful Transition
- Notetaking Technologies for Middle School, High School, College, and Beyond
- Living Independently with a Cognitive Disability: How Technology Can Help

Whether you're brand new to assistive technology or an experienced user wanting to remain on the leading edge, CTD has high-quality, research-based materials and events for you!
