- Arts organizations are responsible businesses, employers, and consumers. Spending by nonprofit arts and culture organizations—just a fraction of the total arts and entertainment industry—was an estimated $61.1 billion in 2010, and leveraged an additional $74.1 billion in event-related spending by arts audiences. This $135.2 billion in economic activity supported 4.1 million FTE jobs and generated $22.3 billion in total government revenue.
- Spending by arts audiences pumps vital revenue into the local economy. When patrons attend an arts event, they may pay for parking, eat dinner at a restaurant, shop in local retail stores, and have dessert on the way home. Based on the 151,802 audience surveys conducted for this study, the typical arts attendee spends $24.60 per person, per event, beyond the cost of admission. And, nonlocal attendees spend more than twice as much as their local counterparts ($39.96 vs. $17.42).
- From large urban cities to small rural towns, Arts & Economic Prosperity IV demonstrates that the arts are an industry—one that supports jobs, generates government revenue, and is a cornerstone of tourism. Business and elected leaders need not feel that a choice must be made between arts funding and economic prosperity. This study proves that they can choose both. Nationally as well as locally, the arts mean business!
