Unit Introduction

The purpose of this unit is for students to learn the importance of civic participation in a democracy through the exploration of an issue very relevant to students’ lives: school closings. Although many residents in the city of Chicago, both young and old, are aware of the proposed school closings and have probably been exposed to related media sound-bites, a thorough understanding of the this complex issue is too often lacking. Being a two-week unit, the myriad complexities of the issue cannot be addressed adequately. However, it is possible to develop a solid understanding of some of the major issues, which will lead students to take an informed and educated position on school closings. The unit addresses both the Board of Education’s explanations for the school closings, as well as the major concerns of groups opposed to them. A conscious effort is made to give fair hearings to all sides involved. The end goal is for students to develop a clearer understanding of the issues involved so that together we can make a decision about how to take action with regards to school closings, following a service-learning framework. Service-learning is a process which includes the following steps: 1) Investigation, 2) Preparation & Planning, 3) Action, 4) Reflection, and 5) Demonstration. Because much of the service-learning process is student-driven, the unit plan becomes less detailed in the second week, as we get into planning an action related to school closings.
