Join the Revolution Transforming Education

Ubiquity University expands its offerings for students at a time of unprecedented crisis and opportunity. A range of problems in virtually every area of human and ecological concern challenge local, national and global systems. Hypercomplexity characterizes our world as small events anywhere can have large effects everywhere. Equally unprecedented are our young people, the first in history to grow up digital. They have new mindsets and require new skill sets to successfully navigate their future. They need to be empowered to develop the creative, collaborative, and intellectual capacities necessary to become change agents in their communities. This is what Ubiquity is designed to provide – a new education for a new world.

Our approach comes out of two decades of research and development since our founding as an academic institution in California in 1996. What we now offer represents our vision for what true learning can be for the future that is coming:

Integral Learning: Conventional schools impart knowledge and train students principally in analytical thinking. Ubiquity is designed for the whole person. For us, creativity, not simply knowledge, is the key to the jobs of the future, and collaboration, not just competition, is the critical factor for success. Our education emphasizes new thinking, honors student interiors as much as exteriors, and nurtures personal empowerment and social activism as much as academic excellence, all within an integral framework. Students learn to play the game and change the game.

Digital/Collaborative Design: Conventional education relies on lectures and memorization. Ubiquity's learning system involves a specially designed technology platform through which the students collaborate in 'pods' as they engage in academic studies, self mastery exercises, and real life missions together. Everything is designed to nurture creative collaboration. We also provide Learning Journeys so students can travel together to places of interest all over the world.

Modular/Mobile: Conventional schools train for degrees. Ubiquity is designed as a GPS of learning. We start with the students and get them where they want to go. We are completely modular, enabling students to obtain everything from BAs, MBAs, and PhDs to Certificates and Badges – anything they need for their specific needs and timeframes, all from their digital devices. Ubiquity accepts transfers from MOOCs and non-traditional education sources so that students can custom design their own learning pathways. Wherever and whoever you are, you can learn through Ubiquity. We will get you to where you want to go.

Globally Affordable: Student costs and tuition for higher education are dramatically escalating worldwide, taking education out of the reach of millions of perfectly qualified students each year. Ubiquity is globally affordable, offering a full BA and MBA for $12,000 and a range of affordable certificates and courses. Low cost. No debt. Globally. We also have a One Plus One program where for each student who pays, we admit one for free.

As the 21st Century unfolds, new forms of learning must be implemented to prepare young people and learners of all ages for the future that is coming. This is the reason for Ubiquity University – WE OFFER A WHOLE NEW KIND OF EDUCATION FOR A WHOLE NEW KIND OF WORLD.
