

Recently, through the school-based clinic, a Kindergarten teacher, concerned about the persistent cough of a student, took the Kindergartener to the clinic. There, the student was diagnosed with pneumonia. When the mother was informed of the diagnosis, she requested that her older child, also a student at the school, be tested. The sibling also had pneumonia. The MUSC staff was able to treat both children and called in a prescription for the mother. Through the clinic, the mother was able to have her children diagnosed and treated without having to miss time from work. And, the children had minimal time out of the classroom!
