

This was my first experience at Special Olympics. I was struck by how organized everything appeared to be and especially by how the participants were very independent and so excited and confident to be with their friends and fellow competitors. It must have been so exciting for them to walk out onto the football field with a stadium full of people cheering for them. What an overall positive experience!

