Chef Tech Academy Camp

Day Camps Grades 2-5 • Residential Campes
Grades 6-12 • May 29 – July 29 • Auburn, AL

The goal of Chef Tech Academy camp is to effectively bridge the global learning gap in math, science and technology through our children's passion for cooking. We will prepare our children to compete globally with a focus on the development of these key skills. Chef Tech Academy, developed by Sidney Corum, Founder and CEO of Chef Ago Go, is being conducted along with Tiger Dining and Chartwells at Auburn for rising 6th through 12th grade students (Overnight Camp) and 2nd-5th graders (Day Camps) nationwide who are interested in cooking, the culinary arts, learning about health and wellness, and becoming chefs. This one-week, residential program provides students the opportunity to learn how much of a role the critical elements — math, science, technology and communication skills — play in their development as chefs and leaders in our communities. Students will learn about food and how to prepare it for maximum taste and nutrition. What's more, these young leaders will be equipped with a better understanding of nutrition and the importance of physical exercise. They will be in a position to help their generation battle childhood obesity and diseases like diabetes. Chef Tech Campers will learn about organic vs. processed foods, farm-to-table concepts, gluten and other food allergies—and they will have FUN!
