

CHAIRMAN'S CORNER

Our two Democratic Presidential candidates are continuing their battle for the nomination as the Democratic Party's Presidential candidate. One will prevail, but the closer we come to the Democratic Party's convention, the race is becoming more vitriolic. My sincerest hope is that the vitriol does not split our party such that we do not garner sufficient votes to maintain the presidency.

On another note, the presumptive Republican Party candidate has been changing his positions on just about everything that he has espoused as the bases of his candidacy. He walked back some of his extreme positions, and in the same interviews espoused them again.

An interesting article published in the May 20, 2016 The New Yorker magazine, entitled The Dangerous Acceptance of Donald Trump, and authored by Adam Gopnik, is a frightening expose on how Trump is changing the political landscape and why we must be cognizant of what is happening because of him.

You should be sure to read this article and suggest it to all of your friends and acquaintances, both Democrats and Republicans. The link to the article is:

<http://www.newyorker.com/news/daily-comment/the-dangerous-acceptance-of-donald-trump>

If at the link you cannot get to the article, please go to the RCDP website to access the full text of the article at

<http://www.riversidecountydemocrats.org/wp-content/uploads/2016/05/05-20-16-Donald-Trump-in-The-New-Yorker.pdf>

---Howard Katz