

LRC Students Learn While Enjoying Tasty Snacks

The Learning Resource Center classes have been busy learning to prepare simple snacks. The students enjoy and learn best through hands-on interactions in a real world environment. Through these activities, the LRC students demonstrate cooking readiness, following written or verbal directions, identifying basic terms used in food preparation, experimenting with simple measurement and demonstrating basic kitchen hygiene.

The students are using a visual recipe to make peach pocket pies. They used bread, peaches, cinnamon, sugar and butter.

Teachers Amy Martin(right) and Ashely Hunt (left) assist the students as they place the peach pockets into the hot oven.

The students enjoyed both making and eating the snacks they made themselves. Here, they are enjoying the peach pocket pies with a scoop of vanilla ice cream.
