

First Friday February • Top Picks from PaperClips215

February is a busy month for creative Philadelphia with openings and benefits happening across the city! Here are our Top Picks for what not to miss this First Friday, February 6th, handpicked for you by PaperClips. If you are out exploring the arts in Philadelphia, use #clips215 to share, tweet, and gram along with the PaperClips team!

A Sense of Balance • 5-8pm @ The Center for Art in Wood (141 N. 3rd Street)

The Center for Art in Wood presents the First Friday opening reception for A Sense of Balance. The solo exhibition will feature the sculptures William Stoney Lamar that are created primarily through a unique approach to the multi-axial lathe approach to turning wood, giving the pieces a distinct sense of line and movement. Shape, color, and modeling of the wood determines how paint and metal are employed in the works, and how they are finished.