About Alpha Omega Alpha

Alpha Omega Alpha is a national honor medical society, founded in 1902. The society is dedicated to improving the medical profession by recognizing high educational achievement, honoring gifted teaching, encouraging the development of academic and community leaders, supporting the ideals of humanism, and promoting service to others.

Election to AΩA is an honor signifying a lasting commitment to scholarship, leadership, professionalism, and service. Students are selected for induction based on both scholarly achievement and professional conduct. Among the factors considered are academic standing, leadership skills, professionalism, ethics, and commitment to service in the school and the community.

AΩA has 128 chapters in medical schools throughout the United States and has elected more than 150,000 members since its founding.
