

TOS Canada sponsors students at Golden Link College

Clyde Lamina is an exuberant 16-year-old with bright eyes and a huge smile. He is in grade 9 at the Golden Link College. Jubilee Taguinod, a thoughtful 16-year-old in grade 8 at GLC, with eyes that seem to see into your very soul, has dreams to fulfil. Besides being students at GLC, the two have something else in common. Both students have their tuition and school fees sponsored by the TOS Canada.

As one of its national projects, the TOS Canada has sponsored students at GLC since 2004, each year paying the tuition for two students, Jubilee Taguinod and Clyde Lamina. In 2007 an additional donation was made for library books, and since 2008 Canada has contributed annually to the Kern Foundation Matching Grant to assist GLC. Most recently, a special donation was made in 2015 by the TOS Canada to help pay for the opening of new classrooms for the incoming Senior High School.

Since 2002 the Golden Link College has stood as a prime example of a truly theosophical school. The Golden Link College now offers classes from the primary to tertiary level. Children are treated as evolving souls with theosophical values and principles imparted in ways that are appropriate to the children's ages. The Golden Link College and its sister schools are mostly subsidised because they were primarily established to serve the less privileged. Besides general donations those who wish to help support the school may also subsidise individual students just as the TOS Canada and others have done.

The TOS Canada receives letters from Clyde, Jubilee and their mothers periodically. The letters received this past year are shown below.
