

Jobs & Careers Center of the San Francisco Public Library presents

Co-Coaching Workshop with Marty Nemko

Saturday January 9, 2016

10 – 12 p.m.

Latino Hispanic Community Rm
Lower Level – Main Library

Job searching can be dispiriting. And many job seekers can't afford a career coach or counselor who can offer inspiration, useful tactics, and emotional support. Learn the art of exchanging career coaching with a peer. Don't know an appropriate co-coach? You'll learn how to find one. This workshop will include lecture and practice time with the Bay Area's most popular & dynamic career counselor, Marty Nemko.

Marty Nemko was called “The Bay Area’s Best Career Coach” by the San Francisco Bay Guardian and “Career counselor extraordinaire” by U.S. News. The author of seven books including How to Do Life: What They Didn’t Teach You in School and 3,000(!) well-published articles, he is a regular contributor to Time.com and to P*SY*chologyToday.com. He is in his 26th year hosting Work with Marty Nemko on KALW 91.7 FM. All that’s atop his full-time career counseling practice in Oakland. His website: www.martynemko.com

All programs at the Library are free.
