

PETER SINGER PROTEST

WEDNESDAY

JUNE 10TH
2015

12:00 NOON

PRINCETON
TRAIN STATION

OR

1:00 PM

PALMER SQUARE AT PRINCETON UNIVERSITY

ACI is collaborating with several agencies, including Liberty Resources in Philadelphia and Not Dead Yet, for a demonstration against Professor Singer. Please read the message on the back written by Alan Holdsworth.

The group is meeting at the Princeton Train Station at 12:00 noon. It is approximately 1 mile to the campus, so if you are unable to walk/roll, you may meet us at Princeton University/Palmer Square at 1:00 PM. From there we will be walking to the dean's office on campus. The University is on an Access Link Route.

Bring hand made signs, placards and your outrage! Hand-held signs cannot be attached to sticks or similar objects. We will also be making signs at the ACI offices on Friday, June 5th from 12:30 to 2:30 PM at 629 Amboy Ave, Edison, NJ 08837.

WE DEMAND THAT

- Princeton call for Singer's resignation and publicly denounces his comments.
- Princeton hires a bioethicist from the disability community in a comparable position to provide a platform for views that contrast with his.
- Princeton creates its own disability policy program to educate future leaders on an inclusive community.

FOR QUESTIONS & REGISTRATION, PLEASE VISIT ADACIL.ORG OR CALL 732-738-4388.
RSVP DEADLINE IS JUNE 9TH.

OK FOLKS, ITS TIME TO KILL YOUR KIDS OR JOIN US AT THE PETER SINGER PROTEST

A message from Alan Holdsworth

Disabled kids are a burden, aren't they? Wouldn't it be great to find an ethical excuse to get rid of them? Not only are they a burden to you, but also to the health care and welfare systems of America. Maybe parents and doctors should just kill disabled babies for the greater good, which means saving money so we can all go to the beach....without our kids! After all, why should non-disabled persons living in a non-disabled world with non-disabled kids pay for those people?

The fewer disabled people there are the more resources there should be for the healthy children. Why spend money on disabled children when we could spend it on healthy ones? Don't you and the health care system have a moral responsibility to kill your kid?

This is the mantra of Peter Singer, tenured Ethics Professor at Ivy League Princeton University. See his recent statements and judge for yourself. Singer has a long history of this form of discussion in educating the future leaders of not only the U.S. but students around the world.

Meanwhile disabled advocates and family advocates have no place in the Ivy League! If nothing changes, the future is Ivy League means the future is death. If you disagree with Singer and think your disabled children's lives are worth living, then join us at the protest.

WANTED: YOUR OLD BABY DOLLS!

ACI is in need of old dolls for street theater at the peaceful demonstration. If you have old dolls that you no longer want, please drop them off at ACI, 629 Amboy Avenue, Edison, NJ 08837 or email Carole Tonks at ctonks@adacil.org.
