Sandy Slack Endorsed HighScope Trainer

What does social studies/social science mean to young children? How do we ensure experiences within the preschool classroom that are personally meaningful to young children while meeting the Virginia Foundation Blocks and the HighScope Key Developmental Indicators? This workshop will give you the basics to understand preschool social studies. Participants will engage in stations to experience activities appropriate to preschoolers to help them successfully understand “four year old” social studies. Lay the foundation for their success as they move into elementary school.
