

Her Story....

Beginning in the early 1980s, with approximately 15 African American women, this gathering of the hearts, minds and souls of sisters first occurred in a Catholic retreat center located in the Brookland section of Washington, DC.

This network, African American Women in Ministry (AAWIM) focuses solely on UCC African American women in ministry. The purpose of AAWIM holds firm; that every African American woman would recognize who they are and where they are on this sacred journey. Our hope is that through this network, women will be moved to reach beyond the table, embrace one another and offer a warm welcome to their sisters in ministry.

The ongoing needs of African American women in ministry have been the catalyst in continuing our gatherings, exhibited through the biennial AAWIM Conferences.

Having come a long way from the initial gathering of women, AAWIM continues to move onward by faith.
