

Career Counselors Appreciation; Not Alone in Your Search for Employment

Andrew Mclean, a job seeker from Hopkinton, MA came to Workforce Central Career Center in Milford, where he attended the Career Center Seminar on September 2, 2015. Following the career center seminar he was selected for the Reemployment Services and Eligibility Assessment (RESEA) Program and met with Thomas Lambert, Career Counselor. Upon completion of his RESEA Review, Andrew continued to meet with Tom regularly and the two discussed his background as a retail manager, as well as other options he could explore as career path in utilizing his transferable skills.

Andrew was eager to engage in the offerings and services at the career center and took the advice of Tom to utilize individual appointment's with him, as well as a variety of different workshops, which included; Live with CTORQ, and Exploring Occupational Options. As a result of participating in these workshops Andrew took the opportunity to think creatively; these actions lead him to other opportunities and ultimately the obtainment of a full time Operations Manager position at Extra Space Storage Inc., in February, 2016. Andrew is thrilled to be working again. Andrew sent a letter of appreciation to Tom and the Career Center, sharing his positive experience in Milford:

“The one-on-one with Tom felt like you cared about my personal situation and wanted to give the best personalized advice possible, rather than just saying the same exact thing to every person. Those few minutes made me feel as though I wasn't alone anymore in my search for employment. That personal touch was noticed and much appreciated.”

Congratulations Andrew on your new position!
